

AQUITANIA, BIGGEST
BRITISH LINER, SAILSThousands on Shore Cheer and Whistles Blow as She Begins Maiden Trip.

NOTABLE PASSENGER LIST

Baron Eversley, Ex-Cabinet
Member, Making First Visit to U. S. in 57 Years.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun.

LIVERPOOL, May 30.—To the accompaniment of thousands ashore and the notes of steam whistles and sirens at the way down the Mersey, the new steamship Aquitania of the Cunard Line, the largest British liner ever built, started on her maiden voyage for New York this afternoon.

Many notable men were among the passengers. One of these is C. E. Scribner, chief engineer of the Western Electric Company, who has been in England for two months demonstrating to the British Post Office Department the working of the long distance printing telegraph which is now in use in the United States. The Post Office Department has ordered that a trial be given the system and it will be installed on one of the telegraph lines running from London.

Another passenger on the new ship is Baron Eversley, better known perhaps as the Right Hon. John Shaw-Lefevre, P. C., who was a member of several Cabinets and is the author of many political works, who is making his first visit to the United States in fifty-seven years. Baron Eversley, who is 82 years old, will remain in the United States only a few days, and will come back on the Aquitania on her return trip.

William S. Cramp, author, who has been in Egypt, Turkey and Italy gathering literary material, is homeward bound on the new liner.

A passenger on the Aquitania is J. C. Cowden of San Francisco, who came to England to secure polo teams for competition during the Panama-Pacific exposition next year. Mr. Cowden said the only trouble he had was to avoid getting too many teams to go to San Francisco to participate in the contests.

Two English teams have been promised to take part as well as several Indian teams and one from France. The British War Office, Mr. Cowden said, was very much interested in the proposed tournament.

WITNESS FEARS KIDNAPPERS.

Woman in Havana Murder Trial
Says Negro Entered Her House.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun.

HAVANA, May 30.—Senora Ruiz, who is a witness for the State in the prosecution of ex-Don. Asbert, Senator Vidal Morales and Representative Eugenio Armas for the murder of Chief of Police Armando Rivero on July 7, 1913, informed the police to-day that she was awakened by a noise in her room last night and saw a negro standing by the crib in which her child was sleeping. Senora Ruiz screamed and the negro fled.

Senora Ruiz has received several threats that if her testimony in the murder case was not given to the police, her child would disappear. She said she feels certain that the negro did not enter the room for the purpose of robbery, because the jewels on her dresser had not been touched, but that he was about to kidnap her child.

GALLERY BOOES "ADELE."

Americans Respond With Applause and Spirited Contest Follows.

Special Cable Despatch to The Sun.

LONDON, May 30.—"Adele," the musical comedy which was heard in New York this season, was produced at the Gaiety Theatre to-night and had a mixed reception. At the conclusion of the performance the occupants of the gallery "booed" the cast, to the great amusement of the American actors and actresses, who are not used to such demonstrations.

Americans who crowded the stalls and boxes responded to the boosing of the gallery occupants with applause and a spirited contest ensued between the rival factions.

Carolyn Thompson as Adele was a great success as Dallas Welford, whose approach to apoplexy caused great amusement.

PLANS FOR HAMEL'S FLIGHT OFF.

Manager's Action Indicates End of Hope for Missing Aviator.

St. John's, N. F., May 30.—H. E. Whitaker, aviation manager for Gustav Hamel, who came here some time ago to make arrangements for the flight of the Engle airman from Newfoundland to Ireland, sailed for home to-day.

The disappearance of Hamel in his flight from Paris to London a week ago and the fact that Mr. Whitaker's work in arranging for Hamel's attempt to win the Daily Mail prize of $50,000 for the first aviator to make a transatlantic flight, and his departure is taken to indicate that all hopes that Hamel may have been picked up by some vessel and carried to a distant port have been abandoned.

Lieut. John Cyril Forte, R. N., who is to pilot the over-ocean flying boat, the Glenn H. Curtiss is building at Hammondsport, N. Y., for Rodman Wanamaker, considered Aviator Hamel his most serious competitor. Lieut. Forte learned of Hamel's plans on his recent trip to England, and has been rushing the building of the Wanamaker plane to get ready for the start from St. John's before Hamel could get his machine completed and shipped over from England.

Hamel had intended to start in August. His machine was a huge monoplane and it is practically completed.

Aviator Hamel was the first Englishman to loop the loop. He left Liverpool, France, on the morning of May 23 and crossed the channel to Hendon and has not been seen since.

SPANIARDS JOIN IN MEMORIAL.

Services for Soldiers of Both Nations at Manila.

MANILA, May 30.—For the first time since the American occupation of the Philippines, Spaniards and Americans joined in memorial services for the dead of both nations at Fort William McKinley.

Gregorio Hovila made an address in which he paid a tribute to the Spanish soldiers who gave their lives for the freedom of their country and whose bodies are buried here.

Don Morante, a Spanish officer, also made an address in which he referred to the "gallant Americans." He expressed his profound appreciation of the friendly spirit displayed by them in promoting this joint service in honor of one time foes who are now friends.

Prayers were offered for the President of the United States and the King of Spain.

SOCIETY AT SLEEPY HOLLOW.

THEATRES CLOSE FOR SEASON.

Five Houses—Scenes of Success—
Give Final Performances.

The Knickerbocker Theatre presented "The Criminal Mind" for the last time last night. Julian Eltinge has been successful in New York in this farce than in any other.

"Sally" was sung last night by pretty Mimi Hagen and her associates for the last time. Next season H. W. Savage will send two companies on the road to sing this work. It is to be regretted that Miss Mimi Hagen will not be given over to moving pictures next Monday.

Laurette Taylor ended her long engagement at the Cort Theatre in "Peg o' My Heart" and will sail next week for Europe. The theatre will be given over to moving pictures next Monday.

"Panther" was played last night at the Booth Theatre for the last time this year. Mme. Petrova may open the season in this successful drama of Moulton Hooff.

Winthrop Ames closed the Little Theatre last night after a successful revival of Clyde Fike's play "The Truth." It is said that Grace George, who was so successful in the leading role, may be seen in the play next winter in a number of American cities.

MANY CHANGES IN CAST.

New Actors Will Be Seen in Several Successful Plays.

Bernard Thornton has taken the place of Eugene O'Brien in "Kitty Mackay" at the Comedy Theatre. Mr. O'Brien has been under contract to head the stock company which will play this summer at Elitch's Garden in Denver. Mr. Thornton has been acting with Billie Burke.

Jane Oaker has supplanted Ada Dwyer in "The Dummy" at the Hudson Theatre, as Harvey O'Brien, who was so successful there throughout the summer and Miss Dwyer felt the need of a vacation.

The change of cast at the Gaiety Theatre will be the last of the season. The play which has been acting this play in Chicago is headed by Cyril Scott, and these players to-morrow night will take the place of the company headed by the Eddingers. The players who have been at the Gaiety Theatre will have an opportunity for a vacation while the farce will be performed all summer.

EIGHT BAREFOOTED GIRLS IN GREEK
ROBES DANCE IN FOREST OF MT. KISCOCopyright Press Illustrating Company.
Dancing on the grass in the Greek theatre at Miss Martha Leonard's villa at Mt. Kisco. Miss Beulah Hepburn to the right. Miss Beatrice King in the centre.

A picturesque Greek festival of dances was enacted yesterday afternoon in the open air Greek theatre at Brookside, near Mount Kisco, New York, the principal feature of which was an octet composed of young New York society women. The entertainment was given by Miss Martha Leonard to aid her in her propaganda of Greek costumes and dances. There were forty dancers in all, and 300 interested spectators came from country houses in the vicinity. A party of fifty friends motored from New York.

Miss Leonard began last summer to give a fresco classic dancing entertainments, staging three of them. Near her bungalow at Brookside she has arranged a charming setting for these Greek revivals. The audience sits on natural ledges of stone in a pretty little amphitheatre situated at the edge of a cool forest. The stage is carpeted with grass, a real mountain form the backdrop, and a brook near by sings its quiet melody. Miss Leonard, who wears the Greek robes and sandals at all times, has gathered about her many adherents of Greek dancing. There will be dancing every Saturday this summer, weather permitting.

The dancing yesterday lasted "from 5 o'clock until the setting of the sun." The air was perfect for open air and free limbed exercise. A fifteen piece orchestra led by Darlington Richards played classic selections. The dancers wore the single piece robe, a colored toga, white fillets for the hair, carried apple blossoms in their hands and left their feet bare.

First they paraded in classic fashion into the centre entrance of the stage between the white pillars and back again. Then followed solo and group numbers. The programme concluded with a dancing pageant from the amphitheatre into the forest and across the tiny stone bridge and back again.

Those who took part in the ballet were Miss Martha Leonard as Orpheus, Miss Camilla Morgan as Eurydice, Miss Frederica Coit as Eurydice, Miss Furst, Miss Elsa Kuehne, Miss Mary Wilson, Miss Margaret Patterson and Miss Margaret King. Among the audience were some well known dancers from New York.

BISHOP WELLS MARRIES
DR. A. H. SMITH'S WIDOWMarriage Takes Place in St.
John's Chapel at Hobart College.

GENEVA, N. Y., May 30.—The Right Rev. Lemuel Henry Wells, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Spokane, Wash., was married to-day to Mrs. Jane Sheldon Smith of New York city and Geneva.

The ceremony was performed in St. John's Chapel, Hobart College, by the president of the college, the Rev. Dr. Lyman P. Powell, in the presence of 200 persons. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride on Main street.

Mrs. Smith is the widow of the late Dr. Andrew H. Smith, formerly a prominent New York city physician and owner of the Algonquin Hotel. She is a daughter of the late James C. Sheldon, who formerly owned the White Springs farm near Geneva. During his student days at Hobart College Bishop Wells became acquainted with the then Miss Sheldon, and a friendship has been maintained between them throughout their lives. The nuptials to-day marked the third marriage of each party. Bishop Wells is 74 years old and his bride about 66.

Bishop and Mrs. Wells left immediately after the reception for the West and will spend to-morrow in Chicago, whence they will go direct to Spokane.

The New York city guests included the Rev. and Mrs. J. Townsend Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Martin, Mrs. Starr King Walker, Bruce Sheldon, Charles W. MacMullen and Mrs. Robert W. Elliott.

MISS ANITA DEWEY WEDS.

DR. EMIL GRUENING,
NOTED SURGEON, DEADSpecialist in Ophthalmology and Otology Succumbs to Endarteritis. Simply to Get Out of the Way.

Dr. Emil Gruening, consulting ophthalmologist and aural surgeon to Mount Sinai Hospital, died yesterday at his home, 36 East Fifty-seventh street, of cerebral endarteritis after a short illness.

He was born in Hohensalza, Prussia, October 2, 1842, and came to this country in 1862. He entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons, but interrupted his course to enlist in the Seventh New Jersey Volunteer Infantry. He took part in the battle of Hatcher's Run and the siege of Fort Mifflin, and was present at the surrender of Gen. Lee.

He returned to New York, was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1870. He was appointed assistant surgeon to the New York Ophthalmic and Aural Hospital, and in 1879 he was appointed ophthalmic surgeon to the Mount Sinai Hospital, and in 1880 to the German Hospital. He served actively for thirty years at the former and twenty-three years at the latter hospital.

Dr. Gruening began practice when ophthalmology was in its infancy and endarteritis was a new and dangerous ailment. In the latter service was development of the mastoid operation as it is performed in this country to-day. In these fields he was one of the foremost authorities. His standing as a surgeon and his medicine have become highly specialized. Dr. Gruening achieved the highest distinction in each branch.

Dr. Gruening was president of the American Ophthalmological Society, president of the American Otological Society, twice president of the section of ophthalmology of the New York Academy of Medicine, and president of the New York Academy of Medicine, director of the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, president of the Society for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Medical Men and a member of many other scientific societies. He was also professor of ophthalmology at the New York Polytechnic.

He has contributed voluminously to medical journals on subjects connected with the eye and the ear. In the encyclopedia "Diseases of the Eye," edited by Norris and Oliver, he wrote the chapter on "Injuries of the Eye." He was the first to call attention in this country to the dangers of blindness from wood alcohol poisoning.

He is survived by a widow, four daughters and a son.

COL. LOVERING DIES SUDDENLY.

Was Long at Fort Sheridan and Served in Spanish War.

CLAREMONT, N. H., May 30.—Col. Leonard C. Lovering, 83 A., retired, died suddenly at his home here yesterday.

Col. Lovering was born in Hartford, November 13, 1834. He was graduated from West Point in 1856. He was in the Spanish war from 1898 to 1900 and later was sent to Fort Sheridan. He became involved there in an altercation which resulted in his trial before a court-martial. A private named Hammond said that when he refused to accompany Col. Lovering to the officers' quarters where he was to be tried for infraction of the rules the officer tied a rope to his ankles and dragged him to the quarters.

Col. Lovering was publicly reprimanded. His chance to redeem himself came at El Caney, and he distinguished himself there. At Siboney he again acquitted himself with honor.

After the fall of Santiago he returned to Fort Sheridan, and in the following year was sent to the Philippines as a Major of volunteers. He was later made a Major in the regular army. He retired in February, 1910.

He was a member of the New York and New Jersey families.

Mrs. Huldiker was the widow of Frederick Huldiker, who was head of many railroads, among them Lehigh, the Richmond and Danville system, now the Southern Railway.

Mrs. Huldiker was a resident of Washington for more than thirty years. She was a member of the Huguenot Society of New York, the National Society of Colonial Dames in the District of Columbia, the Washington Chapter of the Order of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Association of Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Mrs. Huldiker was well known in society in Washington and elsewhere. Two sons, Frederick L. Huldiker and Reginald S. Huldiker, both of Washington, survive her.

35,000 YOUNGSTERS
ROMP IN THE PARKSSquirrels Take to the Trees
Simply to Get Out of the Way.

So many children went to Central Park yesterday and spread over the lawns in games and frolics that the squirrels and birds had to take to the trees simply to make room for the visitors. The warm sun had dried up the early morning's rain and put the greensward in the condition for an outing.

By noon the children were arriving by battalions and regiments, some with bands, music and wagonloads of good things to eat and drink. They took possession of the lawns of the Sheep Green, Cherry Hill, the East Green, Cedar Hill, East Meadow, Hamilton Hill and Peacock Lawn. The young went in May parties with growing gusto.

The Bozeman Brethren Sunday School of 347 East Seventy-fourth street made an unusual display by having seventy-five girls dressed in the fancy costumes of the Bozeman peasant. There were 400 Sunday school children in this party, which paraded to the park with a brass band. Little Frances Nacheols of 439 East Forty-fourth street was the queen, and was a very pretty one. 400 also she held up a bunch of lilies of the valley and kissed them to her courtiers.

The largest party in the park was the Peter Dooler May party, which paraded 1,000 young and old. One of the odd features of the outing was the baby carriage parade. Eighty babies were trundled by their mothers from Fifty-fourth street and Third avenue to the East Green in the park. Two bands furnished music for the parade. This outing was handled by women. Mrs. Mary Van Arman, of the Mrs. W. Condon and Mrs. William Eckert—and they managed it tiptop, the youngsters said.

There were lots of ice cream, sandwiches, ginger, root beer, cakes, candy and other things that make a hungry boy or girl like to be at a picnic. Margaret Stegman of 402 East Fifty-sixth street was elected May queen and was so proud of the position that she failed to see some of her weekday chums that stood near by gazing at her fine costume.

The West Side youngsters turned out 500 strong and went to the Sheep Green. They belong to Tenth avenue and cross streets. The band was organized by three schoolgirls, Gertrude Schaefer, Mary Noy and Loreta Arons, all of 661 Tenth avenue. The party was made up mostly of schoolgirls, but they allowed a few boys to come along to help get the lunched.

It was not only in Central Park that young and grownups sought the pleasure of walking or tumbling on fresh grass and taking part in outdoor games. Mount Morris Park had crowds of Harlem women and children and more crowds found enjoyment in their own way in Carl Schurz Park, in Seward Park and in the other small parks on the East and West sides.

DIED.

COTHREN—Suddenly, at his home, 178 South Oxford street, Brooklyn, on Friday, May 29, Frank Howard Cothern, son of the late John Cothern and Elizabeth Cothern, and husband of Marion B. Cothern, in the forty-third year of his age.
